DESCRIPTION

Art of Doctoring combines large-group mini-presentations by outstanding UCI-SOM faculty and small group discussions designed to enhance the physician-patient relationship; expand students’ communication skills, and provide strategies to promote compassion and empathy as core physician values. The class uses self-reflective practices, role-modeling, reflective writing, and case-based practical problem solving.

PREREQUISITES

This course is intended for 4th-year students enrolled in the undergraduate medical education program at University of California, Irvine School of Medicine (UCISOM).

RESTRICTIONS

This course is intended for 4th-year students enrolled in the undergraduate medical education program at University of California, Irvine School of Medicine (UCISOM).
COURSE DIRECTOR
Dr. Sosa-Johnson earned her BA in psychology from Pitzer College and her medical degree from UC San Diego SOM. Since joining the Health Sciences clinical faculty in 1999, she has served as a primary care provider providing excellent bilingual, bicultural patient centered primary care medical services. In addition she has held various clinical and leadership roles including Co-Medical Director at UCI Anaheim FHC, Clinic Attending and Mentor in the Internal Medicine Residency continuity clinic, lecturer in the Residency Noon Lecture Series and Academy sessions. She has worked extensively with medical students as a faculty mentor in the Clinical Foundations Course and teaching in the Prime LC (Program in Medical Education for the Latino Community) component of the course. Her involvement continued as clinic mentor during their 3rd year Internal Medicine Ambulatory rotation.

In 2010-2011, she served as the first Director of the Office of Diversity and Community Engagement at the School of Medicine (ODCE). In 2011 she was appointed Assistant Dean of Diversity and Community Engagement. In this role, she worked closely with medical students through the UC Irvine School of Medicine Diversity Coalition to coordinate various community outreach activities focused on strengthening the pipeline to medical school for under-represented students in medicine. In addition, she also served as Co-Faculty Director for the annual Diversity in Medicine Seminar Series which has been sponsored since 1999 by the UC Irvine Health School of Medicine, UC Irvine School of Biological Sciences, and the UC Irvine Office of Equal Opportunity and Diversity (OEOD).

It has been Dr. Sosa-Johnson’s distinct honor to receive several awards and honors since joining the faculty. The most meaningful to her are those she received for her teaching activities, the Gold Humanism award with subsequent induction into the national Gold Humanism Society and the 2012 faculty nomination by the medical students for the Association of American Medical Colleges Compassion in Medicine Award.

Dr. Sosa-Johnson’s role as an Internal Medicine physician has been productive and dynamic. As a Clinical Professor of Medicine, she continues to strive to provide excellent patient centered medical care and to support UC Irvine Health’s mission to provide excellent health care to all our diverse patient populations as well as continue to be a supportive mentor for both our Internal Medicine residents and medical students.

CONSULTANT
Johanna Shapiro earned her B.A., MA (counseling psychology), and PhD (counseling/women’s studies) from Stanford University. She is professor of family medicine and founder and director of the Program in Medical Humanities & Arts, University of California Irvine, School of Medicine (http://www.meded.uci.edu/student-life/medical-humanities.asp). She is the recipient of many teaching awards and an elected member of the Gold Humanism Honor Society.

As a psychologist and medical educator, Dr. Shapiro has focused her research and scholarship on the socialization process of medical education, with a special focus on the impact of training on student empathy; professional identity formation; and the medical student-patient relationship. She routinely uses reflective writing in medical student and resident teaching and has also presented workshops on reflective writing to family physicians, cancer survivors, and primary care patients.
Dr. Shapiro has served as poetry co-editor for the e-magazine Pulse and the journal Families, Systems, and Health; and as an assistant editor for Family Medicine. She is widely published in the field of medical humanities, and has over 160 peer-reviewed publications. Her book, The Inner World of Medical Students: Listening to Their Voices in Poetry, is a critical analysis of important themes in the socialization process of medical students as expressed through their creative writing.

She taught or co-taught Art of Doctoring every year from 2003-4 to 2019-20. Student evaluations have been extremely positive (available on request).

Course Coordinator:
Marvin Paguio, BS is the course coordinator for the Art of Doctoring course. He is a recent graduate of the University of California, Irvine where he majored in Human Biology with a minor in the Medical Humanities. Marvin found his love for the medical humanities early at UCI, where he was captivated by the ability to honor people’s stories of health and bring their perspectives to life. From there, Marvin actively pursued medical humanities projects with the undergraduate organization Healing through Humanities, with whom he has been a lead project member for the Humans of Santa Ana photojournalism project and other mural painting projects. Marvin’s current independent project examines structural barriers to occupational exhaustion among Filipinx-Americans in the medical community. In the future, Marvin hopes to pursue graduate research in medical anthropology and attend medical school with the ultimate goal of serving in the primary care field.

4. Major Exams, Assignments and Grading

Course is based on adult learning, empowering students to construct an experience that best meets their needs. So long as they successfully achieve the requisite mandatory items and requisite number of points they will either pass or achieve honors in the class.

MAJOR ASSIGNMENTS AND EXAMS
There are no exams. There are 2 major writing assignments (an essay on difficult clinical encounters, and positive physician role models), assigned reading with commentary of classmate's essay, and a group final project.

MANDATORY SESSIONS
To Pass AoD, a student must accumulate a minimum of 70 points.
These 70 points earned by attending
1. minimum of 14 sessions (4 points/session = 56 points)
2. 14 points from completing the mandatory assignments.

GRADING
Medical Students are graded using the following scale: Honors (H), Pass (P), Fail (F) Incomplete (I). For further information, please review the Grading Policy.

HONORS/PASS/FAIL CRITERIA
Honors = 90-100 POINTS
Pass = 70--89 POINTS
Fail = less than 70 points
MANDATORY Assignments for achieving passing of 70 points include:
1) Attendance with a minimum of 14 class sessions
2) 2 written assignments (Difficult Encounters and Clinical Observation)
3) Group project
4) 1 Assigned readings of classmate’s essays

*Attendance: Each session is worth 4 pts.
So maximum number of points for attendance possible = 80 points

*Assignments: (14 POINTS maximum)

1 essay on Difficult Encounters = 4 points
1 clinical observation write-up = 4 points
Assignment Reading: = 2 points

Assigned Reading: Each student must read and comment on one of their classmate’s essays (difficult encounters or clinical observation). After each writing assignment, students will be randomly assigned a paper to read and comment on through the Canvas interface.

Group Project [includes class presentation] = 4 points

Additional points for course available through the following activities:

*Discussion Board –
* 4 POINTS maximum – each COMMENT/RESPONSE posted during the course is worth 1 point; only up to 4 comments/responses will receive credit, although we hope you will post more

*Session Evaluations –
* 2 POINTS maximum – each completed session evaluation is worth .2 points

*Extra credit options @ 4 points per activity
- Additional tag-along, clinical observation with write up
- 2nd Essay on Grief and Loss
- Participation (including write-up) in an event contributing to student growth

The instructor will contact all students halfway through the course and provide feedback on their standing in course, including identification of problems and recommended solutions. If a student fails the course he/she will be given the option of doing additional written work that will be negotiated between the instructor(s) and the student; or he/she will repeat the elective.
Requirements for “Pass”: To receive a grade of Pass, students must demonstrate successful performance in all the following areas:

- Knowledge
- Patient Care
- Practice-Based Learning
- Interpersonal & Communication Skills
